

Journal of
The American
JUDICATURE

Society

Vol. 48, No. 1
June, 1964

BIBLIOTECA DE LA CORTE SUPREMA	Ros W
ORDEN	34.234
CLASIFICACIÓN

GLENN R. WINTERS, Editor

Robert E. Allard, Assistant Editor

Rae N. Selig, Editorial Assistant

HEMEROTECA
SALA 2
ESTANTE 34
TABLA 59

CONTENTS

The Herbert Lincoln Harley Fellowship, Editorial	3
Laymen Lead in Judicial Reform, Editorial	4
New York City Bar President To Address Annual Meeting	5
Punishment Before Trial—Abuses in pre-trial detention and bail are being corrected in a massive nation-wide attack	10
The National Movement to Improve the Administration of Justice, by Glenn R. Winters	17
Improving Metropolitan Justice— A Guide to Court Organization, by Maxine B. Virtue	23
The Fight for Judicial Reform in Pennsylvania Is Just Beginning	28
National Council Announces Grants for Pilot Legal Education Projects	29
Studies of Pre-Trial Procedures Completed in New Jersey and California	29
Five States Raise Judges' Salaries	30
The Reader's Viewpoint	32
The Literature of Judicial Administration	33
Daniel Webster, Quotation and Photograph	36

The Herbert Lincoln Harley Fellowship

GREAT as have been the contributions of Wigmore, Pound, Harbo and others to the American Judicature Society, all are dwarfed by those of the Society's great founder and secretary for more than 30 years—Herbert Lincoln Harley.

The very idea of the organization was first conceived in Herbert Harley's brilliant mind. It was he who sought and found the financial backing to make it possible, who journeyed throughout the 48 states enlisting professional support, and who arranged the details of the Society's actual incorporation in July, 1913.

Unmindful—even scornful—of personal credit or notoriety for himself, Herbert Harley served the young Society in the lowliest capacities, as record keeper, work horse and errand boy. With the founding of the Journal of the American Judicature Society, in 1917, his own illustrious leadership in the judicial reform movement of America got its start.

Harley's fiery impatience with the status quo for its own sake, his quickness to recognize and acknowledge the forward-looking ideas of others, his generosity in giving credit and shunning the limelight for himself, his crisp, newspaper style of writing and his colorful, forthright editorials, all combined to give him and the Journal an influence that quickly became nation-wide and world-wide and continued to increase throughout the extraordinarily

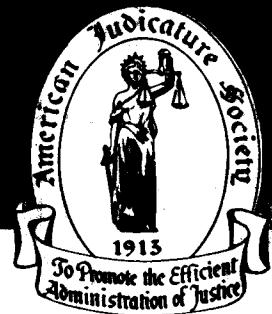

June, 1964

J Journal of the American
JUDICATURE
2-59 Society

VOLUME 48, NUMBER 1

Punishment Before Trial

AMERICAN JUDICATURE SOCIETY • CHICAGO, ILLINOIS