- 412 Letters
On six-man juries and absolute values.
- Elmo B. Hunter 413 Editorial reply
Why the Judicial Conference opposes S. 1873.
- Joseph M. Hassett - 414 Query
Should Supreme Court justices deliberate more before they begin to write?
- George Gerbner - 416 Trial by television:
Are we at the point of no return?
Television reshapes the way we perceive reality. Before we allow TV in even one more courtroom, we must know more about its effects on trials and on our image of justice.
- Joseph W. Corso - 427 The importance of political theory for court administrators
Courts are political institutions and administrators must recognize that reality. Here three of them talk about how they have developed and defined their role.
- Victor E. Flango - 436 Would jurors do a better job if they could take notes?
Although the overall impact of juror note-taking remains unclear, a pilot study found few adverse effects and positive juror reaction.
- Harry Downs 444 Judges, law-making and the Constitution:
a response to Professor White
When the Supreme Court substitutes its judgment for that of Congress, it steps outside its constitutional role—and endangers both law and democracy.
- 455 Books
America's Courts and the Criminal Justice System
