THE JOURNAL
OF THE
AMERICAN JUDICATURE SOCIETY

Volume 66, Number 6 December-January, 1983

- E. N. Carpenter, II, and Martha Redfield Wallace* 228 A threat to the future of the Society
- 229 Letters
- William J. Brennan, Jr.* 230 Some thoughts on the Supreme Court's workload
The Justice's address to the Third Circuit Judicial Conference, September 9, 1982.
- Bradley C. Canon* 236 Defining the dimensions of judicial activism
Discussions of judicial activism usually leave the term ill-defined. But this author identifies six specific elements that give general structure to the concept.
- Susanna Barber* 248 The problem of prejudice: a new approach to assessing the impact of courtroom cameras
As a review of the literature readily shows, the potential for jury bias already exists at all stages of the trial process. If anything, cameras may help make trials fairer.
- Karen O'Connor* 256 The amicus curiae role of the U.S. solicitor general in Supreme Court litigation
Though there is little public scrutiny of the office, the solicitor general can and does significantly affect public policy, this study shows.
- Donna Vandenberg* 265 Voluntary merit selection: its history and current status
