

The University of Chicago Law Review

ARTICLES

Cost-Benefit Analysis and Relative Position

*Robert H. Frank
and Cass R. Sunstein*

The Lawfulness of the Reconstruction Amendments

John Harrison

COMMENTS

Making the Criminal Pay in Cash: The Ex Post Facto
Implications of the Mandatory Victims Restitution
Act of 1996

The Mitigation of Emotional Distress Damages

Allocating the Burden of Proof in Rule 60(b)(4)
Motions to Vacate a Default Judgment for Lack of Jurisdiction

REVIEWS

Returning Justice to its Private Roots

To Serve and Protect: Privatization and Community in Criminal Justice

Bruce L. Benson

Andrew P. Morriss

The Market Excuse

Legalizing Gender Inequality: Courts, Markets, and Unequal Pay for Women in America

Robert L. Nelson and William P. Bridges

Martha Chamallas

Volume 68

Spring 2001

Number 2

The University of Chicago Law Review

CARDER
VOLUME
ISSUE
Mar 1 2001

Volume 68

Spring 2001

Number 2

© 2001 by The University of Chicago

ARTICLES

- Cost-Benefit Analysis and Relative Position *Robert H. Frank
and Cass R. Sunstein* 323
- The Lawfulness of the
Reconstruction Amendments John Harrison 375

COMMENTS

- Making the Criminal Pay in Cash:
The Ex Post Facto Implications of the Mandatory Victims Restitution Act of 1996..... Irene J. Chase 463
- The Mitigation of Emotional
Distress Damages Eugene Kontorovich 491
- Allocating the Burden of Proof in Rule 60(b)(4) Motions to Vacate a Default Judgment for Lack of Jurisdiction Ariel Waldman 521

REVIEWS

- Returning Justice to its Private Roots
To Serve and Protect: Privatization and
Community in Criminal Justice
Bruce L. Benson Andrew P. Morriss 551
- The Market Excuse
Legalizing Gender Inequality: Courts,
Markets, and Unequal Pay for Women in America
Robert L. Nelson and William P. Bridges.... Martha Chamallas 579