

THE GEORGETOWN LAW JOURNAL

Article

The Fifth Amendment in Congress: Revisiting the Privilege Against Compelled Self-Incrimination
Michael Edmund O'Neill

Notes

Rodriguez Reexamined: The Misnomer of "Local Control" and a
Constitutional Case for Equitable Public School Funding
Eric P. Christofferson

Picket Fences: Analyzing the Court's Treatment of Restrictions on Polling, Abortion, and Labor Picketers
Rachel Entman

Active Judging: Judicial Philosophy and the Development of the Hard
Look Doctrine in the D.C. Circuit
Matthew Warren

VOLUME 90

NUMBER 8

AUGUST 2002

THE GEORGETOWN LAW JOURNAL

Volume 90

August 2002

Number 8

Contents

Article

The Fifth Amendment in Congress: Revisiting the Privilege Against Compelled Self-Incrimination

Michael Edmund O'Neill 2445

Notes

Rodriguez Reexamined: The Misnomer of "Local Control" and a Constitutional Case for Equitable Public School Funding

Eric P. Christofferson 2553

Picket Fences: Analyzing the Court's Treatment of Restrictions on Polling, Abortion, and Labor Picketers

Rachel Entman 2581

Active Judging: Judicial Philosophy and the Development of the Hard Look Doctrine in the D.C. Circuit

Matthew Warren 2599

