THE PRUDENT JURIST

15 STEPHEN GILLERS

Should a defendant be able to go to court dressed as a lobster?

TERMS OF ART

16 No Uncertain Terms

STEPHEN J. FORTUNATO JR.

Is reasonable doubt a cliché or an important bar against wrongful conviction?

ARGUMENT

19 Let Off With a Warning

RICHARD W. GARNETT

In Miranda cases, maybe the Supreme Court should exercise its own right to remain silent.

22 The Big Kozinski

By Emily Bazelon

If the Ninth Circuit were a circus—and some say that it is—Judge Alex Kozinski would be its ringmaster. Presenting the most controversial judge on our most controversial court.

DELIBERATION DAY

34 Righting the Ship of Democracy

By Bruce Ackerman & James Fishkin

A radical proposal to help voters make better decisions, and what it would have an immediate benefit.

40 Smooth Sailing

By Richard Posner

If spending a day talking about the issues were a worthwhile activity, you wouldn't have to pay voters to do it.

43 The Wrong Tack

By Arthur Lupia

Who's to say that people make better decisions in groups than they do on their own?
