Judicial Lawmaking at the WTO: Discursive, Constitutional, and Political Constraints

Richard H. Steinberg 247

Judicial lawmaking in the WTO is marked by elastic interpretive discourse and constitutional rules that do not serve as a meaningful restraint. Politics, however, constrains both discursive and constitutional latitude, which should alleviate concerns that WTO judicial lawmaking is so expansive as to undermine the sovereignty of powerful states, create a serious democratic deficit for their citizens, or catalyze withdrawal of their support for the organization.

Common but Differentiated Responsibilities in International Law

Christopher D. Stone 276

Multinational agreements are increasingly adopting "common but differentiated responsibilities" that impose obligations more heavily on some nations—typically the Rich—than on others—most often the Poor. While the notion of a "differential" obligation remains ill-defined, there are many reasons for negotiators to offer heterogeneous terms as a way of attracting heterogeneous parties. The author explores the circumstances under which various sorts of differentiation are desirable.
