

EUROPEAN LAW REVIEW

Volume 30 No. 3 June 2005

*Editors: Anthony Arnulf
Damian Chalmers*

Editorial—Overdose

Twenty years after Von Colson: the impact of “indirect effect” on the protection of the individual’s Community rights
Sara Drake

Why go to court in Europe? An analysis of cartel appeals 1995–2004
Christopher Harding and Alun Gibbs

Can selling arrangements be harmonised?
Gareth Davies

Safeguards in food law—ensuring food scares are scarce
Gijs Berends and Ignacio Carreño

Analysis and Reflections

THOMSON

SWEET & MAXWELL

European Law Review

June 2005

Editorial—Overdose	327
Articles
Twenty years after Von Colson : the impact of “indirect effect” on the protection of the individual’s Community rights Sara Drake	329
Why go to court in Europe? An analysis of cartel appeals 1995–2004 Christopher Harding and Alun Gibbs	349
Can selling arrangements be harmonised? Gareth Davies	370
Safeguards in food law—ensuring food scares are scarce Gijs Berends and Ignacio Carreño	386
Analysis and Reflections
The plight of the regions in a multi-layered Europe Jill Wakefield	406
The Court of Justice interprets the database sui generis right for the first time Estelle Derclaye	420
The impact of the European Company (SE) on legal culture Mathias M. Siems	431
Book Reviews	443
Table of Cases	i
Table of Legislation	xviii
Index	xxi