

Cornell International Law Journal

Volume 38

Fall 2005

Number 3

SYMPOSIUM Milošević & Hussein on Trial

KEYNOTE ADDRESS

Ending Impunity: How International Criminal Law Can Put Tyrants on Trial

Gustaf Robertson QC

PANEL 1: Global or Local Justice: Who Should Try Ousted Leaders?

Feminizing the Philosophy of International Criminal Justice in the Iraqi Special Tribunal

Farhad Malekian

In Defense of Hybridity: Towards a Representational Theory of International Criminal Justice

Frederic Megret

Global Criminal Justice: An Idea Whose Time Has Passed

Jeremy Rabkin

Address to the Cornell International Law Journal Symposium: Milošević & Hussein on Trial

Ruth Wedgwood

PANEL 2: Perspectives on Transitional Justice: Collective Memory, Command Responsibility, and the Political Psychology of Leadership

The ICY Trials and Transitional Justice in Former Yugoslavia

Natasa Kandic

Modes of Participation in Mass Atrocities

Mark J. Osiec

Tyranny on Trial: Personality and Controversial Conduct of Defendants Slobodan Milošević and Saddam Hussein

Jerrold M. Post
& Lara K. Paris

The Law and Politics of Contemporary Transitional Justice

Rita Teste

PANEL 3: The Trial Process: Prosecution, Defense, and Investigation

The Iraqi Special Tribunal: A Human Rights Perspective

Michael A. Newton

Prosecuting Saddam: The Coalition Provisional Authority and the Evolution of the Iraqi Special Tribunal

Tom Parker

Errors and Missteps: Key Lessons the Iraqi Special Tribunal Can Learn from the ICY, ICTR, and SCST

Mirbae P. Scharf
& Miran Kang

Former Heads of State on Trial

Mikhail W. Admonoff

PERSPECTIVES

Justice, Power, and the Realities of Interdependence: Lessons from the Milošević and Hussein Trials

Pavani Akhavan

The Tricky Nature of Proving Genocide Against Saddam Hussein Before the Iraqi Special Tribunal

Michael J. Kelly

Milošević and Hussein on Trial

Alfred P. Rubin

NOTES

Theories of Emergency Powers: A Comparative Analysis of American Martial Law and the French State of Siege

William Friedman

Injecting Diversity into U.S. Immigration Policy: The Diversity Visa Program and the Missing Discourse on Its Impact on African Immigration to the United States

Andrew A. Newton

CORNELL INTERNATIONAL LAW JOURNAL

Volume 38

2005

Number 3

---

SYMPOSIUM

Milošević & Hussein on Trial

KEYNOTE ADDRESS

Ending Impunity: How International Criminal Law Can Put Tyrants on Trial

Geoffrey Robertson QC

649

PANEL 1: Global or Local Justice: Who Should Try Ousted Leaders?

Emasculating the Philosophy of International Criminal Justice in the Iraqi Special Tribunal

Farhad Malekian

673

In Defense of Hybridity: Towards a Representational Theory of International Criminal Justice

Frédéric Mégret

725

Global Criminal Justice: An Idea Whose Time Has Passed

Jeremy Rabkin

753

Address to the Cornell International Law Journal Symposium:
Milošević & Hussein on Trial

Ruth Wedgwood

779

PANEL 2: Perspectives on Transitional Justice: Collective Memory, Command Responsibility, and the Political Psychology of Leadership

The ICTY Trials and Transitional Justice in Former Yugoslavia

Nataša Kandić

789

Modes of Participation in Mass Atrocity

Mark J. Osiel

793

Tyranny on Trial: Personality and Courtroom Conduct of Defendants Slobodan Milošević and Saddam Hussein

Jerrold M. Post & Lara K. Panis

823

The Law and Politics of Contemporary Transitional Justice

Ruti Teitel

837

PANEL 3: The Trial Process: Prosecution, Defense, and Investigation

The Iraqi Special Tribunal: A Human Rights Perspective Michael A. Newton	863
Prosecuting Saddam: The Coalition Provisional Authority and the Evolution of the Iraqi Special Tribunal Tom Parker	899
Errors and Missteps: Key Lessons the Iraqi Special Tribunal Can Learn from the ICTY, ICTR, and SCSL Michael P. Scharf &amp; Ahran Kang	911
Former Heads of State on Trial Mikhail Wladimiroff	949

PERSPECTIVES

Justice, Power, and the Realities of Interdependence: Lessons from the Milošević and Hussein Trials Payam Akhavan	973
The Tricky Nature of Proving Genocide Against Saddam Hussein Before the Iraqi Special Tribunal Michael J. Kelly	983
Milošević and Hussein on Trial Alfred P. Rubin	1013

NOTES

Theories of Emergency Powers: A Comparative Analysis of American Martial Law and the French State of Siege William Feldman	1021
Injecting Diversity into U.S. Immigration Policy: The Diversity Visa Program and the Missing Discourse on its Impact on African Immigration to the United States Andowah A. Newton	1049