

Journal of Environmental Law

• •

www.oxfordjournals.org

JOURNAL OF ENVIRONMENTAL LAW

VOLUME 20, NO. 1
2008

CONTENTS

Forewords

Editor's Foreword Chris Hilson	1
'Water Pollution: Improving the Legal Controls' in Retrospect William Howarth	3
The Environment and the Ten Commandments Ludwig Krämer	5
Predicting the Unpredictable Owen Lomas	7
Has Environmental Law Become Humdrum? Chris Miller	8
Perspectives for Environmental Law—Struggling for Sustained Humanity Gerd Winter	11

Articles

Creating Legal Teeth for Toothfish: Using the Market to Protect Fish Stocks in Antarctica Benjamin K. Sovacool and Kelly E. Siman-Sovacool	15
Why Legislate for Sustainable Development? An Examination of Sustainable Development Provisions in UK and Scottish Statutes Andrea Ross	35
Environmental Reporting as a Communications Tool: A Question of Enforcement? Karen Bubna-Litic	69
Best Available Techniques (BAT) and Coal-fired Power Stations: Can the Energy Gap be Plugged Without Increasing Emissions? Mark Wilde	87

Analysis

Climate Change—Statutory Duty or Pious Hope? Peter McMaster	115
Faites Vos Jeux —Regulatory Autonomy and the World Trade Organisation after Brazil Tyres Geert van Calster	121

Significant EU Cases

European Court of Justice—Significant Environmental Cases 2007 Vanessa Edwards	137
---	-----

Reviews	151
---------	-----