

The International
Journal of

Human Rights

Volume 22 Number 1 2018

SPECIAL ISSUE: Realising International Human Rights: Scotland on the Global Stage

GUEST EDITORS: Jo Ferrie,
Rebecca Wallace, and Elaine Webster

ISSN 1364-2987

Routledge
Taylor & Francis Group

The International Journal of Human Rights

Volume 22 Number 1 January 2018

Special Issue: Realising International Human Rights: Scotland on the Global Stage

Guest editors: Jo Ferrie, Rebecca Wallace, and Elaine Webster

CONTENTS

Editorial

- 1 Realising international human rights: Scotland on the global stage
Jo Ferrie, Rebecca Wallace and Elaine Webster

Articles

- 5 Methodological challenges in developing an evidence base, and realising rights
Jo Ferrie and Alison Hosie
- 22 Localising human rights law: a case study of civil society interpretation of rights in Scotland
Elaine Webster and Deirdre Flanigan
- 43 Identifying routes to remedy for violations of economic, social and cultural rights
Katie Boyle and Edel Hughes
- 70 Domestic legislation and international human rights standards: the case of mental health and incapacity
Jill Stavert and Rebecca McGregor
- 90 Enablement and positive ageing: a human rights-based approach to older people and changing demographics
John G. Love and Rory Lynch
- 108 Power, privilege and justice: intersectionality as human rights?
Colin Clark, Dee Matthew and Vicki Burns

Concluding Editorial

- 127 Reflections for an international audience
Nils Muiznieks