

The International Journal
of

Human Rights

Volume 23 Number 5 2019

SPECIAL ISSUE: Beyond 'Rights-Based' Approaches?

GUEST EDITORS: Hannah Miller and
Robin Redhead

ISSN 1364-2987

Routledge
Taylor & Francis Group

CONTENTS

Introduction

- 699 Beyond 'rights-based approaches'? Employing a process and outcomes framework
Hannah Miller and Robin Redhead

Articles

- 719 Human rights and development: the advancement of new campaign strategies
Hannah Miller
- 740 Beyond 'the right to have rights': creating spaces of political resistance protected by human rights
Jeff Halper and Tom Reifer
- 750 Mobilising for food sovereignty: the pitfalls of international human rights strategies and an exploration of alternatives
Emma Larking
- 770 Recognising rights and wrongs in practice and politics: human rights organisations and Cambodia's 'Law Against the Non-Recognition of Khmer Rouge Crimes'
Peter Manning
- 790 Human rights activism and salafi-jihadi violence
Chetan Bhatt
- 819 'Endless wars of altruism'? Human rights, humanitarianism and the Syrian war
Paul Dixon
- 843 Magical legalism: human rights practitioners and undocumented migrants in Mexico
Javier Trevino-Rangel
- 862 Translating rights and articulating alternatives: rights-based approaches in ActionAid's work on unpaid care
Ruth Kelly
- 880 Indigenous rights and extractive resource projects: negotiations over the policy and implementation of FPIC
Kathryn Tomlinson